

BODY LANGUAGE HEALTHY & BOUNDARIES

THE MILGRAM SHOCK EXPERIMENT

In 1961 Stanley Milgram began a series of psychological experiments at Yale University that tested people's willingness to obey an authority figure who instructed them to perform acts conflicting with their personal conscience. Test subjects of all backgrounds were asked to deliver electric shocks to actors pretending to receive escalating levels of pain that in the end would have been fatal if real. Despite agonized screams, evidence of heart attack, and convulsions, it was discovered that the overwhelming majority of participants continuously deferred to authority—doing exactly as the person making the rules told them to, administering these terrorizing shocks. They did this despite intense discomfort. Milgram devised his study to explain the psychology of genocide and answer the popular contemporary question: "Could it be that Eichmann and his million accomplices in the Holocaust were just following orders?"

Likewise with COVID, are we being fatally obedient?

“Simply hold the IR gun, press the trigger and aim the laser guide at the target.”

—INFRARED TEMPERATURE GUN INSTRUCTION MANUAL

Does this language bother you? Do you want your child referred to as a target? Is it possible that socially conditioning children to be treated in this way might be normalizing other forms of inhumane treatment? Why are we doing this?

RISKS vs. BENEFITS

POTENTIAL VISION HARM

"The human eye is sensitive to all radiation, including infrared radiation. Infrared radiation raises the internal temperature of the eye, virtually cooking it. Prolonged IR exposure can lead to cataracts, corneal ulcers, and retinal burns."

—Dr. Murali Mohan.

POTENTIAL PINEAL GLAND HARM

Controversy exists as to whether tissue damage can occur to the pineal gland, which is responsible for sleep and hormone regulation, spiritual thinking, and is essential for good health. Credible studies have not examined the issue closely, however, the same sources that claim vaccines are 100% safe are denouncing the possibility of pineal gland damage as a hoax. Vaccine injury deniers are being proven wrong by CDC whistleblowers, and new independent studies like that of Dr. Paul Thomas and Dr. James Lyons-Weiler.

NOT A LAW

Systematic temperature readings are not required by law. "In general, FDA's guidance documents, including this guidance, do not establish legally enforceable responsibilities. Instead, guidances describe the Agency's current thinking on a topic and should be viewed only as recommendations, unless specific regulatory or statutory requirements are cited. The use of the word should in Agency guidance means that something is suggested or recommended, but not required."

WRISTS ARE MORE ACCURATE

Peer-reviewed study of temperature accuracy proved that readings done at the wrist were more accurate than forehead. "Validity of Wrist and Forehead Temperature in Temperature Screening in the General Population During the Outbreak of 2019 Novel Coronavirus: a prospective real-world study.

BODY TEMPERATURE SCREENING INEFFECTIVE IN IDENTIFYING COVID-19.

Rape victims describe a system of "grooming" by perpetrators consisting of incremental transgressions and boundaries crossed. It starts with a hug that goes too long, then little by little, violations progress. There are speakers in the Health Freedom movement that use the term "medical rape". Are temperature guns to the forehead a form of "medical molestation"? Why can't parents decide if their children receive a temperature reading at the wrist instead of the forehead? Why can't parents decline this completely? Has COVID-19 even killed 400,000 people? Whistleblowers like Dr. James DeMeo and Sen. Scott Jensen are showing that foul play massively inflated death counts. The true number of COVID deaths is approximately 16,000, as normal flu deaths and other expected causes of death plummeted to zero. Psychologically Terrorizing

A primal terror arises when anyone raises a gun to your head. Even two fingers pointed like a gun, from across the street sends a threatening message. Is this body language, acted out daily, really keeping us safe? Or is it conditioning us on some level, breaking down our healthy boundaries? Is a forced temp gun above the skin, a “boiling frog” progression toward a forced syringe, below the skin?

Possibly Physically Damaging

Controversies exist as to the possibility of physical damage to the body, caused by temperature guns. Some say lasers in the direction of the pineal gland will disrupt sleep, hormone, and cognitive function, causing a cascade of other health problems. Others say this is a hoax. There is debate as to which type of guns to use: laser or infrared, but those being scanned have no immediate way of telling which type of gun is being pointed at them. Some doctors say there is potential for damage to the retina, potentially causing blindness or loss of vision if carelessly administered. Are there ways of detecting fever without stirring up controversy? Yes there are.

Less Accurate

Respectable scientific studies have been conducted comparing the accuracy of temperature readings done at the wrist, in contrast to the forehead. The inside of this brochure includes citations and evidence. The wrist is MORE accurate in determining temperature. If an accurate temperature reading is the goal to determine who might be sick, then the wrist is a superior location to gather this health data.

Pressure must be applied to School Board

A phone call, email, or in person visit is an effective way of letting the superintendent and other policy determining individuals understand that this is something that matters.

“Hi, I am a concerned parent at [YOUR SCHOOL]. With all of the challenges of the past year I have accepted school protocol without defiance, but new information regarding temperature guns has me very concerned about the psychological impact of pointing a gun shaped object to the foreheads of our children. It seems especially unnecessary considering the wrist is a more accurate location for temperature readings. I don't like authority figures pointing a gun shaped object to my child's head and I would like it to stop. In addition, there is controversy regarding possible tissue damage involved in repeated laser/infrared exposure, particular for the retina and pineal gland. Temperature readings at the wrist pose no controversy whatsoever.
